A RESILIENT TEAM LEADER, PROBLEM-SOLVER, AND COLLABORATOR

As a three-year starter on the Division I Notre Dame Baseball team and player in the 2022 College World Series, David successfully balanced academics and athletics, learning resilience, leadership, and how to thrive in high-pressure environments while working toward a common goal.

Beyond the field, David gained corporate experience through consulting-related projects, and coaching and mentoring skills serving in youth athlete programs, which deepened his passion for teamwork and community impact.

David is seeking roles in sports organizations, sporting goods companies, or other businesses where he can leverage his background in athletics, problem-solving, and collaboration to drive growth and innovation.
