A COMPETITIVE EDGE, STRONG LEADERSHIP SKILLS, AND PASSION FOR WORKING WITH PEOPLE

C'Borius has a background in both anthropology and communication from his studies at the University of Notre Dame and the University of Pittsburgh. A former Division I football player and team captain, C'Borius brought his competitive instinct, leadership, and people-first approach to his recent role as a Logistics Liaison, developing operational and administrative skills while managing high-pressure coordination between brokers and drivers.

C'Borius is exploring opportunities in sales, sports marketing, and client-facing roles where he can leverage his communication strengths, athletic background, and interest in high-energy, team-oriented environments. He thrives in roles that require interpersonal connection, adaptability, and a results-driven mindset.
